

A BRUSH WITH THE PAST

Special offer!

Jane Stanley's reconstruction paintings blend artistic skill with details obtained from the very best archaeological research. She has captured the day-to-day lives of people at numerous sites in Cornwall from Mesolithic times onwards. Now we can see what life would have been like.

The book comprises 151 pages, is printed on high quality paper with over 50 full-colour illustrations. In addition to reproductions of the paintings there are sections explaining the research on which they are based. Originally published in 2009, these beautiful books have become hard to obtain. Now a small supply has become available and can be purchased from Cornwall Archaeological Society.
