Registered Charity No. 1055654

Changes to Data Protection Regulations from 25th May, 2018

From 25th May 2018 new much stricter Data Protection Regulations come into force. Organisations such as ours, the Cornwall Archaeological Society, are required to obtain the specific consent of members to hold information about them, to use that information to contact them and in certain circumstances to share those contact details internally within the Society for the purposes of furthering the work of the Society.

We hold names, postal addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses for our members, and we use your contact information to send newsletters, the Journal, notices of meetings, subscription reminders and to provide information about forthcoming events.

We will never share the information we hold about you outside the Society, and you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time by contacting the Membership Secretary. Our Privacy Policy is available on the CAS website. If you would like to receive it by post, please contact the Membership Secretary per email at membership@cornisharchaeology.org.uk or send your request to CAS Membership Secretary, c/o Royal Cornwall Museum, River Street, Truro, Cornwall, TR1 2SJ.

So that we can continue to keep in touch with you, please fill in and return the attached form either by mail to the Membership Secretary at the above address or download the form, which can then be filled in and returned by email.

Please note: if you don't opt in to hear from us, you will still receive those items that are a core part of your membership such as the Journal and newsletters while you are a member of the Society, but we will not be able to send you other information about meetings or events. If we don't receive your written consent, we will have to delete your contact information six months after you cease to be a member of the Society.
